

The Afternoon Field Guide

Two adventures before the belts: your voice, then the fourth tool. Keep this sheet beside your phone.

Part 1 · Talking to your phone

13:30 – 14:45

The one rule: speak messy. Talk the way you talk — structuring is the AI's job, not yours.

1) Hold the mic and talk for 30 seconds about the task. 2) Then ask: "Turn this into a task list with owner and deadline columns." 3) Read the table back against your own words — did every number survive?

Where is the mic?

- The little mic on your keyboard — works inside every app
- ChatGPT: the voice button beside the message box
- Gemini: "Live" — a real back-and-forth conversation

 Voice safety, three lines: a corridor is a public place — no names, no IC numbers out loud · say money and dates in full words ("sixteen thousand five hundred") · the read-back IS the check.

Your drill, your work

Dojo page → Training Grounds → tap  Talking to your phone → six drills; pick the one that looks like your desk. Try Malay too — then check the names.

Part 2 · The Claude hour

15:00 – 16:00

One new tool, one party trick: paste a table, and Claude draws the chart in front of you.

Sign in: claude.ai → "Continue with Google" (free plan — see the setup guide). The chart spell: "Draw a bar chart of [X] by [Y], with an honest caption: total, units, source." Then the twist: "Now draw the misleading version on purpose." Seeing both, side by side, is the lesson.

The caption test — could a stranger read your chart alone and not be misled? Four things in the caption: total · units · source · full axis. Then check ONE bar by hand — ten seconds.

 The Hidden Scroll of Numbers is already open on the dojo page — tap each of its five arts for a plain-words explanation. That scroll is what today made you.

The mini-pack (in pairs) — one scenario, built end-to-end in Claude: a summary table + one honest chart + a five-line memo. Then sign it: AI-assisted, verified by [your name].

The rules never change, whatever the tool or the voice: fictional data only in this room · Public — paste freely · Internal — anonymise first · Confidential or personal — never · and before anything leaves your desk: verify — find one thing to fix. AI drafts. You decide.

Tonight: one drill from your shelf (role → tap) · questions to the box — the Librarian answers every evening · First Trial: 4 September.
